PROJECT FOR UTS (DELTA)

Made with enthusiasm

EXPLORING UNIQUE CULTURE IN SOME COUNTRIES

WHAT TO DO:

Hello guys,
You will have a project for UTS. What you need to do are:

1. Add a Section here in Padlet. Rename the Section with the name of the COUNTRY that you want to present.
2. Write the members of your group.
3. Create a PAMPHLET/PPT/Presentation Slides using Canva telling the description of the country.
4. Explain the content of your pamphlet/PPT/Slides in a presentation. Record the presentation in Video (MP4) format.
5. Save your video in Google Drive or upload it to YouTube.
6. Share the link to your video in your Section.

THE DEADLINE FOR THE UTS PROJECT IS SATURDAY, 04 NOVEMBER 2023 AT 23:59 WIB.

GOOD LUCK

CULTURE SHOCK : DELTA 2023

WHAT TO DO:

1. Please watch a YouTube video about Culture Shock.
2. Share the link to the video here in Padlet.
3. Create a post in Padlet about:
 - where the person comes from and which new country/culture he/she faces.
 - identify what culture shock the person is experiencing or what makes the culture shock happen.

You may watch a video using Bahasa Indonesia, but you must explain it in English.

The deadline is TODAY, 15 November 2023 at 23:59 WIB.

PewDiePie

1 Year Japan Review (0 - 10)

PewDiePie is a YouTuber who was born and raised in Gothenburg, Sweden. A Swedish YouTuber who is best known for his comedy videos. PewDiePie has visited Japan several times as a tourist before and even went on business trips to Japan in collaboration with several brands such as Sanrio, Square Enix, and Delia. In 2022, PewDiePie and his wife, MarziPie, decided to move to Japan because they fell in love with the country. However, PewDiePie experienced culture shock after settling in Tokyo.

PewDiePie experienced a culture shock after settling in Tokyo. He admitted that he initially had difficulty adapting to the different culture, values and customs in Japan. However, he felt happy to be able to realize this dream and tried to adapt to his new environment.

PERTAMA KALI LAKI-LAKI KOREAN KE INDONESIA! CULTURE SHOCK DI MANA-MANA @LakiLakiKorea

This person came from Korea and visited Indonesia, but after arriving in Indonesia they were very surprised by the culture in Indonesia which was very friendly and kind, without them knowing Indonesian people, Indonesian people immediately reached out a hand or help to make them happy, want to carry their things. And they greeted the Korean people very cheerfully.

The cultural shock that exists in Indonesia is that they were very surprised when they arrived in Indonesia why there were absolutely no dogs roaming around here, that here there are lots of cats, it's different when they go home to Bali, when they go to Bali they end up it's very easy to meet dogs everywhere and was very surprised by that, then one of their friends explained that in Bali the majority of the population is Hindu, so they keep dogs and also use pork. The big shock was that they were very surprised by the drivers in Indonesia who were very fast, different from those in Korea who drive while following the road markings, but in Indonesia there are no road markings, even though they

Before going to Japan and after five years in Japan. So the first time the girl went to Japan, she was shocked by the cleanliness of the Japanese city because it is very clean there and he also follows the culture of throwing rubbish in its place and makes a positive impact on the boy. The boy was also surprised by the small number of trash cans in Japan. As for the food, the girl was surprised by the bland taste because Japanese people often use soy sauce, salt and broth for their food, without using spices.

At the public bath, the guy said that Japanese people change clothes directly in front of the lockers. There, if you want to rinse, you can't use soap and shampoo, then the rinse area doesn't have a door. At night in Japan it's very quiet. In Japan, if you want to sing, you have to go to a karaoke place, you can't do it at home because it's prohibited.

CULTURE SHOCK ORTU KOREAN DI INDONESIA!ab

I took a video on YouTube with the channel name Priscilla Lee. The content in the video that I saw was about a family where the family was originally from Korea and had lived in Indonesia for approximately 30 years. And 2 girls asked their parents about the Culture Shock they experienced for the first time in Indonesia.

The first, Culture Shock according to the father of the 2 children. The father mentioned some of the Culture Shock he experienced, namely,

1. Indonesian people always smile, are friendly, always answer when asked (not necessarily the correct answer), Indonesian people never say "I don't know" (it's unpleasant).
2. It's dark in Indonesia, at night the lights are not bright enough, it's different from Korea where the lights are really bright.
3. In Indonesia at night the lights outside the house are always on, in Korea they are always turned off.
4. Indonesian people are not honest, they always make promises but don't keep them. Always say "yes" but in the end it doesn't get done. Don't want to get straight to the point (maybe promises), Indonesian people

CULTURE SHOCK DI SWISS | HIDUP DI SWISS | BUDAYA SWISS | DARU YANG SUPER ANEH SAMPE BIKIN GR

Desy is an Indonesian woman who married a man from Switzerland and chose to live in Switzerland.

There were several culture shocks that she felt when she was in Switzerland. Among them

1. Curfew imposed Starting from 9:30 pm to 7 am. Curfew is a rule where everyone is not allowed to make any noise during these hours. Because Swiss people like comfort and don't like noise.
2. All supermarkets are closed on holidays Supermarkets in Switzerland will be closed on holidays even if it is on weekdays due to public holidays.
3. No homework on Sundays Sunday is a quiet day for the Swiss and most of them will use it for family time in the park or other open fields.
4. Punctual Swiss people have a high regard for time because they are very responsible for their time. And Swiss people don't like being late.
